

SCOTTISH LAW COMMISSION
ELEVENTH PROGRAMME OF LAW REFORM: CONSULTATION

Introduction

1. The Scottish Law Commission is seeking suggestions for suitable law reform projects for our next Programme of Law Reform, our Eleventh Programme. It will commence in 2023.
2. The Commission would greatly value any suggestions or comments that you may have. The consultation period closes on 29 July 2022.
3. The Commission's current Programme, the Tenth Programme of Law Reform (Scot Law Com No 250), was published in February 2018 and runs until the end of 2022. The Programme can be viewed on our website, at the following link: https://www.scotlawcom.gov.uk/files/5615/1922/5058/Tenth Programme of Law Reform Scot Law Com No 250.PDF.
4. We will submit a draft of the Eleventh Programme to Scottish Ministers for approval, and laying before the Scottish Parliament.

The context

5. In preparing for the Eleventh Programme, the Commission will have regard to the Scottish Government's National Performance Framework, which aims to:
 - create a more successful country
 - give opportunities to all people living in Scotland
 - increase the wellbeing of people living in Scotland
 - create sustainable and inclusive growth
 - reduce inequalities and give equal importance to economic, environmental and social progress.

6. The Commission's remit covers all of Scots law, both reserved and devolved areas of the law. Reform may be needed because the law is causing difficulties in practice, for example where the law is unfair, unclear, unduly complex or out-of-date. It may also be desirable in areas where consolidation of existing legislation, or repeal of spent legislation, would be beneficial.

Criteria for selection of topics for the Eleventh Programme

7. The selection criteria for the Eleventh Programme are as follows –

- Importance: The extent to which the law is unjust or out of date (for example, unfair, unclear, inaccessible, inefficient, unduly complex or outdated); and the potential benefits likely to arise from reform of the law.
- Suitability: Whether the issues concerned are predominantly legal rather than political; and whether there is any other body better placed to examine the topic in question.
- Resources: The expertise and experience of Commissioners and legal staff and, in relation to projects where there may be a substantial role for a consultant, the availability of adequate funding; and the need for a mix of projects in terms of scale and timing in order to achieve a balance of workload among Commissioners and facilitate effective management of the Programme.

The Commission will also bear in mind whether a Bill on the topic may be suitable for the special parliamentary law reform processes, in particular the procedure for certain Commission Bills in the Scottish Parliament which is described below.

Projects to be carried forward into the Eleventh Programme

8. A number of projects under the Tenth Programme will be carried forward into the Eleventh Programme in 2023. These are –

- Homicide
- Heritable securities
- Damages for personal injury
- Aspects of family law.

9. Further details of these projects can be found on our website: <http://www.scotlawcom.gov.uk/law-reform-projects/>.

10. Also, in January 2022 the Cabinet Secretary for Social Justice, Housing and Local Government made a reference to the Commission to undertake a review of tenement law in connection with compulsory owners' associations.

11. As regards law reform work with other Law Commissions, the Commission may continue to work on joint law reform projects with the Law Commission for England and Wales.

12. In considering the content of the Eleventh Programme, the Commission needs to take account of our existing workload, together with any joint law reform projects.

Projects intended for special Parliamentary processes for law reform

13. The Commission has worked for a number of years with the Scottish Government and the Scottish Parliament to improve planning for implementation of Commission Reports, and to put in place further mechanisms to improve the rate of implementation.

14. This resulted in the Scottish Parliament introducing a procedure to improve consideration of certain Commission Bills. These can now be dealt with by the Delegated Powers and Law Reform Committee. The criteria set by the Presiding Officer for such a Bill were revised in March 2022 and apply to bills whose primary purpose is to:-

“(a) simplify, modernise or improve the law to—

- (i) ensure it is fit for purpose,
- (ii) respond to developments, or address deficiencies, in the common law, or
- (iii) respond to other developments in the law;

(b) make provision which is not likely to generate substantial controversy among stakeholders.”

15. As part of our business planning and our law reform methodology, the Commission considers that it is important to take account of the procedure and to identify projects that may produce draft legislation suitable for it. We would wish to stress, however, that the procedure will not be suitable for all Commission Bills. We envisage that some Commission Bills will continue to go through the conventional Parliamentary procedures, with the lead committee being the Equalities, Human Rights and Civil Justice Committee, or the Criminal Justice Committee, or one of the other subject committees.

16. In the UK Parliament in Westminster, there is also a special procedure for certain Law Commission Bills, including Scottish Law Commission Bills, in the House of Lords. The procedure is available for uncontroversial law reform measures.

17. The Commission would be grateful for any suggestions by consultees for a law reform project for the Commission Bill process in the Scottish Parliament; and for a project addressing an issue of Scots law reserved to the UK Parliament that may be a suitable candidate for the House of Lords procedure for Commission Bills.

Conclusion

18. The Commission would be grateful for your suggestions and comments on the content of the Eleventh Programme of Law Reform. In particular –

1. Do you have any law reform projects to suggest?
2. Do you have any project to suggest that would be suitable for the Commission Bill process in the Scottish Parliament; or, in relation to reserved matters, for the House of Lords procedure for Commission Bills?

19. If suggesting a new project, the Commission would be grateful if you could also provide us with information about:

- the problems and weaknesses with the law that you have identified;
- the impact this is having in practice; and
- the potential benefits of law reform.

Questions

1. Do you have any suitable law reform projects to suggest?

Yes – an amendment to Part 3 of the Health and Social Care (Community Health and Standards) Act 2003 so as to bring within its scope NHS costs incurred in treating industrial diseases, allowing Scottish Ministers to recover those costs from those whose negligence caused those diseases.

2. If suggesting a new project:-

- (a) Please provide us with information about the issues with the law that you have identified:

At present, section 150(5) and (6) of the 2003 Act define “injury” to exclude disease, other than a disease that is attributable to the injury. Currently, therefore, the 2003 Act does not generally allow for the recovery of the NHS treatment costs associated with cases of “industrial disease”.

- (b) Please provide us with information about the impact this is having in practice:

This exclusion is resulting in the NHS in Scotland incurring the cost of treating patients who have been diagnosed with an industrial disease which, unlike other work-related injuries covered by the 2003 Act that may require one course of physiotherapy or surgical intervention, for example, can incur long-term treatments that can last up until a person’s death.

- (c) Please provide us with information about the potential benefits of law reform:

It would allow the Scottish Government to recover the cost of treating industrial diseases in NHS hospitals in cases where someone has already made a compensation payment in respect of the disease. Law reform in this area would build on the already well-established principle that in cases of personal injury, where a person requires hospital treatment as a result of the negligence of another party, it is that other party – rather than the taxpayer – that should cover the cost to the NHS.

So as well as generating revenue for the NHS, this reform could also lead to improved workplace health and safety across all sectors as negligent employers could be at risk of providing compensation to the victim, but also reimbursing the NHS for the costs incurred of treating said victim.

3. Do you consider that your suggested law reform project would be suitable for the law reform process in the Scottish Parliament; or, in relation to reserved matters, for the House of Lords procedure for Commission Bills?

Scottish Parliament

Any Other Comments

By amending the 2003 Act, I believe this reform would be within the competence of the Scottish Parliament and avoids the concerns about touching upon insurance law, which is a reserved matter.

In previous parliamentary sessions, I have tried introducing a Member's Bill to amend the 2003 Act in this way but have encountered challenges in ensuring the Financial Memorandum is robust. Having the SLC investigate this proposed amendment to the law could help boost my future attempts to reintroduce a Member's Bill, or may prove to be more suited to the work of the SLC.

You can see the proposed Bill from Session 5, and the supporting documents, here: Liability for NHS Charges \(Treatment of Industrial Disease\) \(Scotland\) Bill – Bills \(proposed laws\) – Scottish Parliament | Scottish Parliament Website

Thank you for taking the time to respond to this consultation paper. Your suggestions and comments are appreciated and will be taken into consideration when preparing our Eleventh Programme of Law Reform.
