I. THE COMMISSION

1. The Scottish Law Commission, which was set up on 16 June 1965, consists of a full-time Chairman, two full-time Commissioners and two part-time Commissioners. They are:

The Honourable Lord Hunter, V.R.D., Chairman	(Full-time)
Mr. A. E. Anton, C.B.E.	(Full-time)
Mr. R. B. Jack ¹	(Part-time)
Mr. J. P. H. Mackay, Q.C.	(Part-time)
Professor T. B. Smith, Q.C.	(Full-time)

The Secretary of the Commission is Mr. J. B. Allan.

2. On 31 December 1977 Mr. R. B. Jack ceased to be a Commissioner on taking up an appointment as Professor of Mercantile Law at the University of Glasgow. We wish to express our appreciation of his contribution to our work since he joined us in June 1974. We are pleased to welcome the appointment of Mr. R. D. D. Bertram, Writer to the Signet, Edinburgh as his successor.

STAFF

3. Our legal staff consists of two Parliamentary Draftsmen, both on a part-time basis, our Secretary and eight other qualified lawyers. During the year we received assistance from Depute Procurators Fiscal who have been members of our Criminal Law Working Party and undertook research into criminal law matters. During the 1977 summer vacation we employed four graduates in law to assist with our research work. We wish to thank them for their assistance. Our non-legal staff remains at eleven.

PREMISES

4. We are in the process of building up a legal library but the space allocated for our existing library is now inadequate to meet present and future needs. Negotiations have taken place in order to obtain more accommodation to the rear of our existing premises to provide for future expansion.

MEETINGS

5. We continue to hold full Commission meetings twice a month.

II. GENERAL

6. During the year to 15 June 1978 we published two Law Reform Reports and two Memoranda. In our Report on Damages for Personal Injuries: (1) Admissibility of Claims for Services; (2) Admissible Deductions we put forward recommendations which would in many cases enable certain elements of compensation for personal injuries to be recovered on a fairer basis than under the existing law and which would at the same time remove difficulties and doubts about the procedure for recovering such elements. For example the Report recommends reforms in the law and procedure governing the recovery of damages in the very common situation where it is sought to obtain from the person responsible for an accident a sum for remuneration of a relative who has looked after the person injured in the accident during his incapacity. In this Report we also deal with questions whether the receipt of various benefits, including certain social security benefits, should or should not be taken into account in the assessment of damages. Such questions have caused numerous difficulties and doubts under the existing law.

7. In our Report on the Married Women's Policies of Assurance (Scotland) Act 1880 we recommend changes so that a married woman may effect a policy under the Act for the benefit of her husband or children or any of them. We further recommend that the provisions of the Act should apply to unmarried persons contemplating marriage. We also advise clarification of certain of the existing provisions of the 1880 Act.

8. During the year under review we have found it practicable to concentrate a greater proportion of our available resources on programme subjects than we have found possible for some time. As will be seen from Part III of this Report, this concentration of resources has enabled us to make considerable progress on our systematic work of law reform, particularly in the realms of Family Law, Obligations, Bankruptcy, Diligence, Evidence and Private International Law.

9. In the realm of Family Law we would draw particular attention to our Memorandum¹ on Occupancy Rights in the Matrimonial Home and Domestic Violence which was published recently. The protection of spouses, whether wives or husbands, against violence and the right to occupy the matrimonial home are two factors which, in our society, are frequently inter-connected. Those with experience of dealing with disharmony between spouses and cohabiting couples and with its consequences, including divorce or separation on the ground of cruelty or unreasonable conduct, will be very conscious of the constantly recurring situation in which the weaker spouse will tolerate for long periods physical and other ill-treatment rather than leave the matrimonial home and, possibly also through force of circumstances, the children. While wide support may come from family lawyers and many other interests for the idea of conferring rights of occupancy by law in favour of the weaker spouse or partner, the difficulties presented to those with interests in property and also to conveyancers must be recognised. We have found it by no means easy in our provisional proposals to strike the right balance between the various social, economic and legal interests and to cater for the inevitable difficulties in the law of property and conveyancing. On these points we will greatly welcome assistance of those who have been consulted. It may be added that the work on Family Property Law, which has just been begun, will present even greater difficulties of this type and for this reason we would welcome social and economic research as an essential guide to solutions in that field.

10. The publication of our Memorandum² on Defective Consent and Consequential Matters confirms the steady progress on our work on the law of Obligations but this work may suffer some interruption in the near future owing to changes in our legal staff. In this Memorandum we discuss circumstances in which a person should be released from a contract, for example because of error or mistaken belief, whether or not induced by the other party; coercion or threat; fraud; or undue influence. In our proposals we seek to strike a just balance between the goal of maintaining in general the stability and enforceability of legal obligations and the equally desirable end of ensuring that a party is not held to a contract which is seriously tainted by his genuine and reasonable error or misapprehension. Meanwhile, as an aspect of our Obligations programme, our Working Party on Security over Moveable Property are continuing to do work of great value in an extremely difficult and important area of law which has widespread commercial and consumer implications both nationally and internationally.

¹Memorandum No. 41.

²Memorandum No. 42 (2 Vols.).

11. The preparation of our Report on Bankruptcy has absorbed a considerable proportion of our resources and will for some time ahead continue to occupy a major proportion of full Commission meetings. In view of the fact that two of our Commissioners are now part-time, it is not practicable to increase the frequency of full meetings and this is now tending to be a major limiting factor on progress of work.

12. It is particularly satisfactory to us that the social research initiated by the Central Research Unit of the Scottish Office in connection with our programme work on Diligence is beginning to make good progress. We are much indebted to those who have been responsible for the detailed planning of the various research projects, details of which are given later in this Report.¹ It appears probable that the results of the research will be of substantial assistance in the development of social and legal policies in this important field, particularly in relation to collection and enforcement of debt. It is satisfactory to know that some of this research is also likely to be of value to Departments of Government, who have interests in the fields covered.

13. In relation to the law of Evidence we wish to record our gratitude to Sheriff I. D. Macphail whose substantial research paper on the law of Evidence has now been completed and brought up-to-date. We intend to publish this paper in the early part of 1979 and to follow it with a shorter consultative memorandum which is in course of preparation.

14. In the field of Private International Law considerable progress has been made with the EEC draft Convention on Private International Law applicable to Contractual Obligations.² Work on this draft Convention has involved much activity by the Joint Working Group of the two Law Commissions and by individual members of the Group. We are particularly grateful to Lord Maxwell, Professor Diamond and Mr. Newman for the contributions which they have made to the deliberations of the Group. Part VI contains an account of our considerable involvement in EEC and other international matters which fall outwith the scope of our Third Programme of Law Reform. The variety of the work, the extensive nature of these international proposals for reform and the serious implications which some of these proposals may have for the law of Scotland make expertise in this field indispensable.

¹Para. 37.

²See paras. 46-47.

15. We are pleased to note that two statutes resulting from two of our earlier Reports have now come into force. The first of these was the Unfair Contract Terms Act 1977 which emerged from a Joint Report¹ of the two Commissions and came into force on 1 February 1978. This measure has wide general importance. The second statute was the Presumption of Death (Scotland) Act 1977 which came into force on 1 March 1978. This Act has effect in a relatively narrow field but simplifies existing procedure.

16. In Parts V to VIII inclusive of this Report we record the progress made in our work covered by other statutory functions. Such work continues to be of considerable importance and the intervention of the Commission is often necessary if an appropriate Scottish contribution is to be made to the solution of problems whose dimensions are cross-border or international. In particular, we wish to mention two current aspects of our non-programme work, both of some importance. The first of these is our reference on Jurisdiction and Enforcement of Custody Orders. As we explained in our last Annual Report,² we issued on 26 August 1976 a consultative document³ dealing, as a first stage, with Jurisdiction and Enforcement within the United Kingdom, proposing inter alia common grounds of jurisdiction within the United Kingdom. We had intended to review concurrently the international aspects of custody orders. The Council of Europe and the Commonwealth Secretariat, however, are at present examining custody respectively in a European and in a Commonwealth context and child abduction has recently been placed on the agenda of the Hague Conference on Private International Law in each case with a view to the preparation of an International Convention. While it is unfortunate from a Scottish point of view that these developments may delay final consideration of solutions to cross-border custody questions, it seems inevitable that the two Commissions should participate in the formulation of United Kingdom policy in relation to the proposed Conventions and should pause to take account of solutions reached at an international level before reaching firm conclusions on their approach to the cross-border problems. The second area of non-programme work which we would mention here is that on Criminal Law. This arises from various sources, including consultation by the Law Commission (in connection with their work on a criminal code) and by Scottish Departments, proposals and, more recently, a reference. It is our view that the Commission has a useful function to perform in this very important branch of law, and we welcome the assistance which we have received in this connection from members of the Procurator Fiscal service.

17. The fact that full-time membership of the Commission has been reduced, coupled with considerable absences of our Chairman on other duties, has inevitably created very considerable difficulties during the year under review. Moreover, for half of the period owing to delay in making an appointment we were reduced in strength to three full-time Commissioners (including the Chairman) and one part-time Commissioner. These difficulties have resulted in undue strain over a considerable period on the two effectively full-time members of the Commission, and have in a number of respects had adverse effects on the work of the Commission, which seem likely to continue for some time. We think it necessary to draw express attention to this situation.

18. In conclusion we would wish to record our deep sense of loss at the death of Sir Samuel Cooke whose period of office as Chairman of the Law Commission proved so fruitful. His qualities as a lawyer, his invariable courtesy and his skill and tact in the management of joint projects will remain in our memories and he will be greatly missed.

III. LAW REFORM PROGRAMMES

1. FIRST PROGRAMME¹

Item 1: Evidence

19. The paper prepared by Sheriff I. D. Macphail has been updated to reflect the law as at 1 June 1978. The paper extends to twenty-five chapters, and though its length has presented certain problems in publication we hope to publish it in the early part of 1979 and to follow it with a consultative memorandum eliciting comment on the issues of policy it raises.

Item 2: Obligations

20. We continue to make progress on various matters falling within this Programme subject which in many respects is interrelated with the law of Property. Our ultimate objective is comprehensive reform and restatement of this chapter of the law.

(a) Corporeal Moveables

21. On 31 August 1976 we published a series of Memoranda² on the law relating to Corporeal Moveables. The individual Memoranda deal with

- (1) General introduction and summary of provisional proposals
- (2) Passing of risk and of ownership
- (3) Some problems of classification
- (4) Protection of the onerous bona fide acquirer of another's property
- (5) Mixing, union and creation
- (6) Lost and abandoned property
- (7) Usucapion or acquisitive prescription
- (8) Remedies

We have started the preparation of a report on the last six of these Memoranda. At present, however, we consider it would be premature to draft a report on Memorandum No. 25, which deals with the passing of risk and of ownership, principally because our Working Party on Security over Moveables³ is examining inter alia reservation of ownership clauses in contracts of sale which are intended to operate by way of security.

²Scottish Law Commission Memoranda Nos. 24-31.

³See para. 23.

(b) Exemption Clauses

22. The Unfair Contract Terms Act 1977, which implemented with a few modifications the recommendations contained in the Joint Report on *Exemption Clauses: Second Report*¹ received the Royal Assent on 26 October 1977 and came into force on 1 February 1978.

(c) Security over Moveables

23. Our Working Party on Security over Moveable Property,² who are at present considering the implications of the introduction into Scots law of a system of security over moveable property based upon Article 9 of the Uniform Commercial Code of the United States of America, have met six times during the year under review. They are at present framing their provisional views on the questions so far considered by them.

24. We would like to record our indebtedness to the Working Party for the considerable assistance they gave us in the preparation of comments on an EEC Working Paper and Questionnaire³ in connection with the possible harmonisation of the laws of the Member States relating to security over moveable property.

(d) Constitution and Proof of Voluntary Obligations

25. On 10 March 1977 we published a series of Memoranda⁴ containing provisional proposals relating to the constitution and proof of voluntary obligations, and invited commentators to submit their views before 30 September 1977. The individual Memoranda deal with

- (1) General introduction and summary of provisional proposals
- (2) Unilateral promises
- (3) Formation of contract
- (4) Abortive constitution
- (5) Stipulations in favour of third parties
- (6) Formalities of constitution and restrictions on proof.

The comments we have received on this series of Memoranda are now being analysed.

(e) Defective Consent and Consequential Matters

26. On 1 June 1978 we published a Memorandum⁵ on the scope and effect in law of defects of will or consent such as error, force and fear, and fraud. Among the consequential matters considered are delictual liability for misrepresentation, money as a surrogatum for restitution, and procedure for securing judicial authority to annul obligations. We have asked for comments to be submitted by 30 November 1978.

²A list of members of this Working Party appears in Appendix I to this Report.

³See para. 74.

⁴Scottish Law Commission Memoranda Nos. 34-39.

⁵Scottish Law Commission Memorandum No. 42 (2 Vols.).

(f) Penalties and Irritancies

27. Further research has been carried out on the general law relating to irritancies, penalty clauses and liquidated damages clauses in contracts. A memorandum will be drafted when resources permit.

(g) Illegality

28. Work is proceeding on the preparation of a memorandum.

(h) Civil Liability in relation to Animals

29. Research has been undertaken with a view to the preparation of a memorandum on this subject.

(i) Economic Loss

30. A research paper has been prepared which surveys, and examines the possibility of reform of, the present law of Scotland on the subject of the damages which may be awarded in contractual and delictual actions in respect of economic loss not, or not necessarily, associated with physical damage to person or property. However, recent developments in this area of the law, as a result of judicial decision, indicate that this would not be an appropriate time to put forward even tentative proposals for legislation.

Item 3: Prescription and Limitation of Actions

(a) Limitation of Actions in Personal Injury Claims

31. A research paper was prepared for us which surveyed the present law in Scotland and England on the subject of limitation of actions and personal injury claims, and examined the possibility of reform. Some preliminary consideration has been given to a draft memorandum which is at present being revised.

(b) Acquisitive Prescription

32. During the next year we shall be preparing a report on inter alia acquisitive prescription in our review of the law of Corporeal Moveables. This subject was discussed in Memorandum No. 30.¹

2. SECOND PROGRAMME²

Item 6: Insolvency, Bankruptcy and Liquidation

33. We stated in our last Annual Report³ that our Bankruptcy Team were still engaged in the preparation of a draft report. This work continues and a considerable part of the report has now been submitted to, and reviewed by, us. Certain issues of policy remain, including questions relating to the appropriate approach to 'consumer insolvency', questions which also have implications for our Diligence exercise.⁴ Once the draft Bankruptcy Report has been reviewed as a whole by us, the work on a draft Bill will commence. This will be a major task since the Bill will be a species of Bankruptcy Code.

34. In our last Annual Report¹ we mentioned that Mr. Jack had been appointed as an observer to the Insolvency Law Review Committee. It became evident that the work of this Insolvency Law Review Committee would have implications for the law of Bankruptcy in Scotland. Since our own examination is unlikely to cover all aspects of insolvency law and particularly in regard to corporate bankruptcy, in September 1977 we received your permission to set up a Consultative Committee to ensure that Scottish views are ascertained and can be fully taken into account when Government consider in due course whether and how to give effect to the recommendations of the Insolvency Law Review Committee. We have to inform you that the composition of this Consultative Committee² has now been settled. We are grateful for the co-operation of various interests who suggested suitable persons for service on this Committee.

Item 7: Succession

35. Due to commitment of resources to other subjects no work is being done on this subject at present.

Item 8: Diligence

36. As mentioned in our last Annual Report,³ we have taken over from our Working Party responsibility for the preparation of consultative memoranda on Diligence. In the course of the year, work has progressed on the preparation of these and it is currently intended to issue seven memoranda dealing with the following topics:

- (1) An Introductory Memorandum surveying the field to be covered; giving a general outline of the scope and purpose of the memoranda to follow thereon; and setting diligence in the wider context of debt recovery.
- (2) A Memorandum on wage-earners' debt arrangement schemes. The object of such schemes is to help ordinary wage earners in multiple debt situations to arrange for the orderly and regular payment of their debts (in whole or in part) to their several creditors free from a succession or race of diligences.
- (3) A Memorandum on arrestment and judicial transfer of earnings. This memorandum will seek views on the possible introduction in Scots law of one or other of two new forms of diligence against earnings, namely extended arrestment and earnings transfer orders. The object is to ensure that the amounts of wages exempt from attachment are reasonably sufficient for the debtor and his family to subsist and to deal with the problem of repeated arrestments. Extended arrestments would endure for a limited period while earnings transfer orders would have effect until the debt was repaid or until further order. The memorandum will seek views on whether either or both of these diligences should be introduced and, if both should be introduced, what debts should be enforceable by each.

²A list of members of the Consultative Committee appears in Appendix I to this Report.

³(1978) Scot. Law Com. No. 47, para. 36.

(4) A Memorandum on poidings and warrant sales. Though less than 300 diligences of charge, poiding and warrant sale proceed to a sale every year compared with an annual number of 55,000 to 60,000 charges or thereby, this diligence has attracted recent criticisms on a variety of grounds, including the distress and humiliation inflicted on debtors, low valuations of poided goods, and the expense involved which may be out of proportion to the debt. The memorandum will consider a large number of questions including whether expense can be reduced by changes in procedure; whether sales in the debtor's home and the associated advertisements are justified; increased judicial control; and increased exemptions of household goods. The social research referred to below should be of considerable significance in this context.

(5) A Memorandum on collection and enforcement of aliment and periodical allowance on divorce. In this area, the main focus of concern changes from protecting debtors to assisting a particular class of creditors, namely wives and unmarried mothers seeking aliment and ex-wives seeking periodical allowance. It is necessary to reconsider the system of collecting officers proposed by the McKechnie Report¹ in the light of criticisms made of the English system of magistrates court collecting officers by the Finer Report² and a number of other developments. We are, however, considering the possibility of submitting a report on collection without further consultation.

(6) A Memorandum on the administration of the system of diligence and related matters. This memorandum will consider the appointment, training and organisation of officers of court (messengers-at-arms and sheriff officers); their discipline, control and standards of conduct, including the role of court officers in debt collection; their remuneration and the cost of diligence; the problems of the remote areas and related matters. Regard will be had to other systems such as the system of salaried county court bailiffs in England and Wales, the Enforcement of Judgments Office in Northern Ireland, and the system of huissiers in France.

(7) A Memorandum on miscellaneous topics, not falling under the foregoing for example diligence against heritable property and arrestment on the dependence.

37. In addition to the research which we have ourselves undertaken, the Central Research Unit of the Scottish Office have initiated a programme of work to provide information on the social aspects of diligence. The following studies (foreshadowed in the Central Research Unit interim report referred to in our last Annual Report) have been commenced, namely (i) a survey of the nature and scale of the use of diligence in Scotland; (ii) a survey of the use of the summary and ordinary cause procedures for the recovery of debts and property; (iii) a review of creditors' policies; (iv) a study (by the Department of Social Administration, Edinburgh University) of the social impact of diligence on debtors, examining the experience of about 100 persons who have had the final stages of diligence done against them; and (v) a survey (by the Office of Population Censuses and Surveys) of the social characteristics and circumstances of persons who have experienced the first stages of legal action.¹ In addition at our request, the Central Research Unit have recently begun investigations concerning (vi) reports of warrant sales executed in 1977; (vii) the employers' interest in arrestments of wages; and (viii) the role of helping organisations in providing an advisory and counselling service for debtors. All the foregoing research initiated by the Central Research Unit should be completed by the end of 1979.

Item 10: Damages Arising from Personal Injuries and Death

38. Our Report on Damages for Personal Injuries: (1) Admissibility of Claims for Services; (2) Admissible Deductions,² following upon Memorandum No. 21, was submitted to you on 20 April 1978.

Item 11: Presumption of Death

39. The Presumption of Death (Scotland) Act 1977 (which gives effect to the recommendations in our Report on *Presumption of Death*³) received the Royal Assent on 22 July 1977 and came into operation on 1 March 1978.

Item 12: Legal Capacity of Minors and Pupils

40. The work still remains suspended but as stated in our Twelfth Annual Report⁴ we intend to recommence work on this item as soon as our staff resources allow.

Item 13: Criminal Procedure

41. On 20 January 1978 we were invited by the Scottish Home and Health Department to comment on the recommendations contained in Criminal Appeals in Scotland (Third Report).⁵ We submitted our comments to that Department on 9 May 1978.

Item 14: Family Law

(a) Aliment and Financial Provision

42. Work is continuing on the preparation of a report.

(b) Occupancy Rights in the Matrimonial Home and Domestic Violence

43. On 17 April 1978 we issued our Memorandum No. 41—Family Law: Occupancy Rights in the Matrimonial Home and Domestic Violence in which we advanced proposals for the introduction of statutory occupancy rights for spouses in the matrimonial home; improved remedies to protect a spouse and children from the violence of the other spouse; and also remedies to protect a partner to an extra-marital cohabitation relationship from the violence of the other partner. The Memorandum was circulated to a wide range of interested bodies and individuals and we found that there was a widespread demand for further copies. We asked for comments to be submitted by 31 October 1978.

3. THIRD PROGRAMME¹

Item 15: Private International Law

45. The Steering Committee,² comprising members of both Commissions, continues to supervise the consideration of matters covered by the Third Programme. This Steering Committee recommended that the EEC draft Insurance Services Directive be referred to the Joint Working Group examining the draft Convention on Contractual Obligations. Work on this Directive is referred to later in this Report.³

(a) EEC Convention on the Law Applicable to Contractual and Non-Contractual Obligations

46. The Joint Working Group on Private International Law⁴ set up by the Law Commission for England and Wales and ourselves continues to assist the United Kingdom delegation⁵ to the EEC Group of Experts in Brussels in their consideration of the EEC draft Convention on the law applicable to Contractual Obligations and Non-Contractual Obligations. In the year under review, the Joint Working Group has prepared several memoranda and re-drafts of various Articles of the draft Convention for submission to the Brussels Group.

47. The EEC Group of Experts met in Dublin in September, in Luxembourg in December 1977, in Berlin in March and in Edinburgh in June 1978. Future meetings have been arranged for September (in Brussels) and for November 1978 and February 1979 (in Luxembourg). At their March 1978 meeting the Group decided that the draft Convention (which originally extended to both contractual and non-contractual obligations) should be limited to contractual obligations. It is intended that the final draft of the convention on contractual obligations will be completed by February 1979. However, the Group agreed that at a later date negotiations should be resumed with a view to preparing a separate convention on non-contractual obligations.

2. STATUTE LAW REVISION

49. All the proposals for repeals which we have received have been or are in the course of being examined and consultations on those proposals are being conducted with interested representative bodies and with Government Departments.

50. We co-operated with the Law Commission in producing a Ninth Report¹ on Statute Law Revision which was published on 11 May 1978. The Statute Law (Repeals) Bill,² implementing the recommendations of this Report will be introduced into Parliament shortly. In conjunction with our English colleagues material is now being assembled for another Report and Statute Law (Repeals) Bill.

3. PRIVATE ACTS

51. We endorse the work being done by the Law Commission of England and Wales on the preparation of an authoritative Chronological Table of all private Acts (including local and personal Acts) passed since 1539.³ The table, a basic

²This Bill received the Royal Assent on 31 July 1978.

³Up to this year there is no official distinction between public and private Acts. The distinction between public general Acts and public local and personal Acts starts in 1797. The Chronological Table of the Statutes gives no information as to private Acts passed after 1539 or public local and personal Acts passed after 1797; it also omits information as to public general Acts regarded as being of a local or personal nature, an unofficial and unsatisfactory classification which defies definition.

tool for anyone concerned with the preparation of legislation, will show to what extent individual Acts have been repealed, amended or otherwise affected by subsequent legislation of all types including public general legislation and statutory instruments and will complement the existing Chronological Table of the Statutes.¹ That publication shows the current position concerning Acts regarded as being of a public general nature and also shows, in a separate table, the effect of legislation passed since 1974 on private Acts. No publication adequately² shows the effect of legislation passed between 1539–1974 on private Acts and the work now being done is designed to fill the gap. The preparation of the table is a massive undertaking. For the purposes of publication it is proposed to handle work in stages, the first being planned to cover approximately the 50 years prior to 1974.

V. OTHER STATUTORY FUNCTIONS

1. ADVICE TO GOVERNMENT DEPARTMENTS AND OTHER BODIES

52. We continue to give advice to Government Departments and other bodies under section 3(1)(e) of the Law Commissions Act 1965 and some of the matters on which we have advised are mentioned in the following paragraphs. In the first eight of these paragraphs we report progress on the subjects which have been formally referred to us for advice under that section.

(1) Foreign Money Liabilities

53. The Joint Working Party,³ set up by the Law Commission for England and Wales and ourselves to examine the problems which may arise when money is due in a currency other than that of the place of payment or the place where payment is sought, has not met during the year under review. The principles laid down by the House of Lords in *Miliangos v. George Frank (Textiles) Ltd.*⁴ are in the process of being developed and extended by the courts in both England and Scotland. It is our intention to undertake consultations on this topic in due course but we think it would be inappropriate to do so at this stage when the law on this subject is still undergoing judicial development.

(2) Conflicts of Jurisdiction affecting the Custody of Children

54. The comments received on the Joint Working Paper/Memorandum on *Custody of Children—Jurisdiction and Enforcement within the United Kingdom*⁵ have been considered. The Law Commission are reconsidering their approach on the proposed common grounds of jurisdiction and have prepared an alternative scheme which is at present under consideration by us. We hope to resume joint discussion on this scheme.

¹This work is prepared by the Statutory Publications Office under the supervision of the Statute Law Committee. It has been published annually since 1870.

²The Index to Local and Personal Acts, 1801–1947 gives a limited amount of information as to the effect of post-1900 legislation.

55. In our last Annual Report¹ we referred to the fact that further negotiations are contemplated at an international level to deal with conflicts of jurisdiction affecting the custody of children. Following an initiative taken by the Commonwealth Law Ministers at their Conference in Winnipeg in August 1977, we and the Law Commission for England and Wales have undertaken to assist the Commonwealth Secretariat in a forthcoming study of the subject by producing a policy paper suggesting what might be generally acceptable principles for the recognition and enforcement of custody orders. A draft convention is in course of preparation by a Committee of Experts for the Council of Europe; the topic will be further discussed at the Hague Conference on Private International Law in 1980. In view of these future international developments within the Commonwealth, the Council of Europe and at the Hague Conference on Private International Law the preparation of a second Joint Working Paper/Memorandum on the enforcement of custody orders outside the United Kingdom has for the time being been deferred.

(3) Mental Element in Crime

56. In our last Annual Report² we reported that the Law Commission's draft Report on the Mental Element in Crime was being considered by the Working Party under the Chairmanship of Lord Cameron. Following upon our consideration of the report of that Working Party and the publication by the Law Commission of their Report,³ we have decided to undertake a review of the Law Commission's Report in order to ascertain its implications for Scots Criminal Law.

(4) Breach of Confidence

57. In June 1973 we were asked by your predecessor 'with a view to the protection of privacy—

- (1) to consider the law of Scotland relating to breach of confidence and to advise what statutory provisions, if any, are required to clarify or improve it;
- (2) to consider and advise what remedies, if any, should be provided in the law of Scotland for persons who have suffered loss or damage in consequence of the disclosure or use of information unlawfully obtained, and in what circumstances such remedies should be available.'

58. On 14 April 1977 we circulated our Memorandum No. 40—Confidential Information with a request for comments to be submitted by 31 October 1977. We have received an encouraging response to this Memorandum. However, work in this field is complicated by a number of parallel investigations, including that of the Data Protection Committee set up by the Home Office, and we are unlikely to commence work on the drafting of a report in the immediate future.

²(1978) Scot. Law Com. No. 47, para. 93.

³(1978) Law Com. No. 89 published on 21 June 1978.

(5) Hague Convention on the International Administration of the Estates of Deceased Persons

59. We are keeping in touch with the Law Commission for England and Wales but in view of the commitment of our resources to other work we are not in a position to indicate when our Report will be completed.

(6) Irritancies in Leases

60. On 16 September 1976 we received from the Secretary of State for Scotland a reference in the following terms:

‘Without prejudice to the Commission’s freedom to offer advice on any possibilities of reform of the branch of the law I should be glad if the Commission would in the light of Dorchester Studios (Glasgow) Limited v. Stone and Another 1975 S.L.T. (H.L.) 153 and the observations made in the judgments in that case consider and advise on the operation of irritancy clauses in leases of commercial and industrial property (including leases of land for commercial or industrial development) and on related matter.’

Work has continued on the preparation of a memorandum which we hope will be issued in 1979.

(7) Law of Incest in Scotland

61. On 9 February 1977 we received from you a reference in the following terms:

‘To review the law of Scotland on incest, to consider what changes in that law may be desirable, to report their findings, and to make recommendations to the Secretary of State for Scotland on possible legislation to reform the law on incest.’

Extensive research has been carried out on this reference and a first draft of a memorandum is being prepared.

(8) Draft EEC Insurance Services Directive

62. On 17 May 1978 you asked us to ‘consider and advise on the implications of the draft second EEC Directive on the co-ordination of insurance laws and the provision of services in relation to choice of law rules both current and proposed under the draft EEC Convention on Contractual Obligations’.

The Lord Chancellor made a similar request to the Law Commission for England and Wales. The two Commissions referred this matter to the Joint Working Group which has been advising the United Kingdom delegation to the EEC Group of Experts considering the draft EEC Convention on Contractual Obligations.¹ The Joint Working Group are in the course of preparing a consultative document² which will be given restricted circulation to professional, academic and other expert and interested bodies.

¹See para. 46.

²This document was circulated on 4 August 1978.

2. OTHER MATTERS DEALT WITH UNDER SECTION 3(1)

63. As part of our functions we have to examine the law for anomalies and defects; consider the simplification and modernisation of the law; and consider proposals for law reform. In fulfilment of this function the following matters have been or are being examined.

(1) Proposals

64. We continue to receive at various times throughout the year proposals for changes in the law. We take under consideration all such proposals and in subsequent paragraphs we mention what action is being taken in relation to some of them.

(2) Married Women's Policies of Assurance (Scotland) Act 1880

65. On 21 April 1978 we submitted to you our Report¹ on the Married Women's Policies of Assurance (Scotland) Act 1880 which we understand will be published soon.²

(3) Powers of Attorney

66. Work has recommenced on this item with a view to publishing a memorandum during 1979.

(4) Powers of Judicial Factors

67. We stated in our last Annual Report³ that we hoped to issue a report on our proposals for amendment of the Trusts (Scotland) Act 1921 and 1961 to facilitate the exercise by judicial factors of certain of their statutory powers. We intend to submit this Report to you early in 1979.

(5) Agricultural Holdings

68. Resources are still not available to proceed with the preparation of a memorandum.

(6) Companies (Floating Charges and Receivers) (Scotland) Act 1972

69. The comments received on Memorandum No. 33—Law of Rights in Security: Company Law: Registration of Charges: Scotland have been collated and summarised. Some of the comments received have opened up further questions that require consideration.

(7) Criminal Law

(a) Insanity

70. Our Working Party on Criminal Law,⁴ under the Chairmanship of Lord Cameron, when dealing with normal aspects of insanity, examined the availability in criminal proceedings of the defence of insanity where self induced (as by the voluntary taking of drugs) and in May 1978 submitted their report which has still to be considered by us.

²This Report was published on 27 July 1978.

³(1978) Scot. Law Com. No. 47, para. 75.

⁴A list of members of this Working Party appears in Appendix I to this Report.

(b) Conspiracy—Mobbing and Rioting

71. Due to priority being given to other work we have not resumed our examination of the proposal that we should review the law relating to conspiracy (including the law relating to mobbing and rioting).

(8) Criminal Legal Aid

72. We have been informed by the Scottish Home and Health Department that, after giving considerable thought to the possibility of the introduction of a contribution element into Criminal Legal Aid Scheme in Scotland, on the lines of that which operates in civil cases, they are not convinced that this is practicable and that they propose taking no further action pending the Report of the Royal Commission on Legal Services in Scotland. We have decided to reconsider this matter after the publication of that Report.

(9) Actions of Ejection and Removings

73. Mr. A. G. M. Duncan, Senior Lecturer, Department of Scots Law, University of Edinburgh is continuing his research into the law of ejection and removing.

VI. FOREIGN LEGAL SYSTEMS AND INTERNATIONAL LAW

74. On 5 December 1977 we were invited by the Department of Trade to comment on a Working Paper and Questionnaire by the EEC Commission on the harmonisation of the laws of the Member States relating to security over moveable property. We sent our comments¹ to that Department on 26 April 1978.

(2) EEC Draft Insurance Directive: Contract Law

75. On 9 March 1978 we were invited by the Department of Trade and Industry to comment on a draft Directive on the Laws, Regulations and Administrative Provisions relating to Insurance Contracts. 76. A member of the Commission's legal staff represented the United Kingdom at meetings of the Committee of Governmental Experts, held in Rome from 12 to 16 December 1977, 17 to 21 April 1978 under the auspices of the International Institute for the Unification of Private Law (UNIDROIT), to consider a draft Convention on the Hotelkeeper's Contract. We have asked Professor Smith, who is in charge of our programme work on Obligations, to consider this proposal.

(5) UNCITRAL—Draft Convention on International Sale of Goods

78. On 16 February 1978 we were invited by the Department of Prices and Consumer Protection to comment on the text of this Draft Convention which is to be considered at a future United Nations Diplomatic Conference. We referred this draft Convention to the Working Party on Contract Law¹ under the Chairmanship of Professor Smith, who took into account the comments of the Working Party when he attended the Eleventh Session of the United Nations Commission on International Trade Law (UNCITRAL) in New York.

(6) UNCITRAL—Draft Convention on the Formation of Contracts for International Sale of Goods

79. On 2 March 1978 we were invited by the Department of Prices and Consumer Protection to comment on the text of this draft Convention. It was decided that this Convention and the one referred to in the previous paragraph should be amalgamated and brought before a future diplomatic conference to be arranged by the United Nations.

(7) Tenth International Congress on Comparative Law

80. Professor Smith will be attending the Tenth International Congress on Comparative Law to be held in Budapest, Hungary from 23 to 28 August 1978 and will be presenting a paper entitled 'Transfer of Property in Corporeal Moveables by inter vivos Acts in Scotland'.
